

santa fean now

The City of Santa Fe Event Calendar

Whitehawk American Indian and Ethnographic Show

Objects of Art
Santa Fe

our top nightlife
and entertainment picks

PRESENTED IN COOPERATION WITH ALBUQUERQUE
JOURNAL NORTH

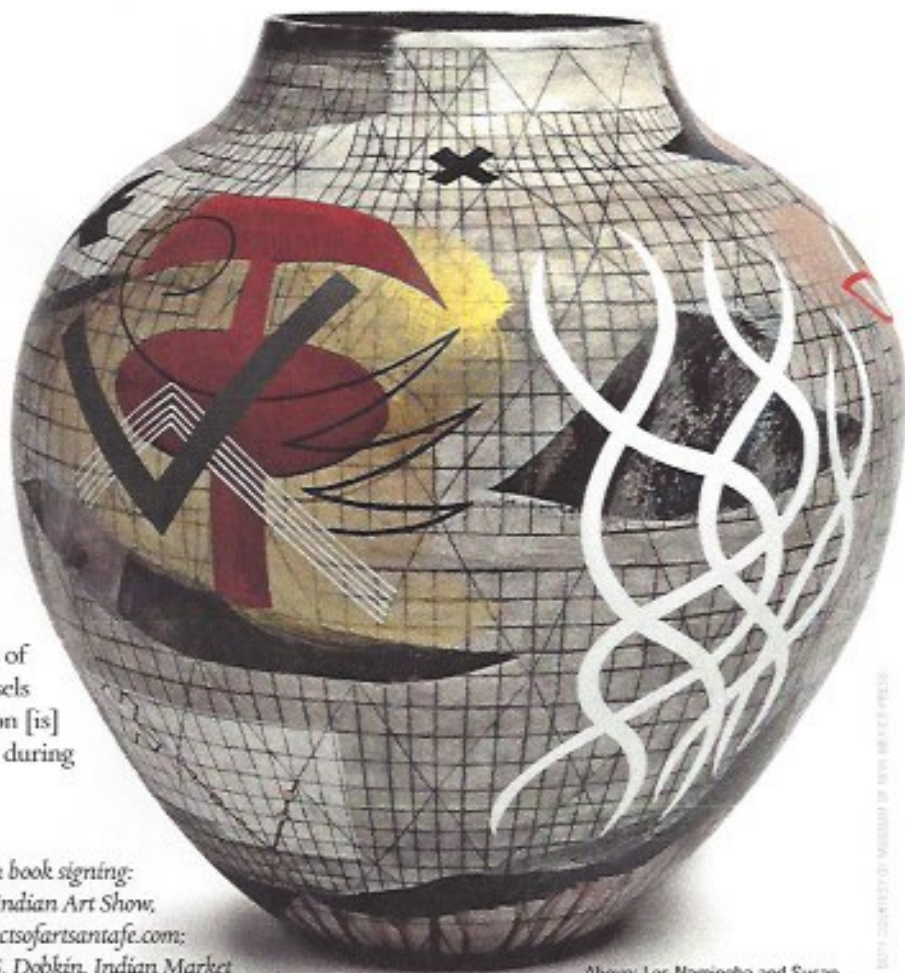

week of August 10
santafeanNOW.com

the buzz

Charles S. King book signing series

EVENT Author Charles S. King signs his latest book, Spoken Through Clay: Native Pottery of the Southwest, in collaboration with Eric S. Dobkin, on August 15, 16, and 19 at two separate locations in Santa Fe. The book explores primarily Puebloan pottery from the Dobkin collection, and includes works by many of the best-known potters in our area—among them Virgil Ortiz, Les Namingha, Susan Folwell, Nampeyo, and members of the famous Tafoya family. “The physical scale of the vessels combined with the depth of the contemporary collection [is] breathtaking,” says King. The official launch takes place during SWAIA’s Indian Market at the August 19 signing.
—Arne Maclachlan

Charles S. King book signing: August 15, 6 PM, Eric S. Dobkin book signing: August 16, 1 PM, free with show admission, Antique American Indian Art Show, El Museo Cultural de Santa Fe, 555 Camino de la Familia, objectsofartsantafe.com; SWAIA sponsored book signing with Charles S. King and Eric S. Dobkin, Indian Market merchandise tent, August 19, 11 AM–12:30 PM, free, Santa Fe Plaza, swaia.org

Above: Les Namingha and Susan Folwell's Geometric Interruption.

The finds at Whitehawk range across continents and cultures, such as this ceramic incensario dating to 800–900 CE.

Whitehawk American Indian & Ethnographic Art Show

SHOW Now in its 39th year, the Whitehawk American Indian & Ethnographic Art Show will once again take over the Santa Fe Community Convention Center for a one-night and three-day extravaganza. This will be the first year that Whitehawk will combine their two shows into one world-class event. Whitehawk's owner and producer, Marcia Berridge, states, “Combining the two shows has allowed us to focus our efforts into one antique tribal event that highlights the very top tier of dealers in both American Indian and ethnographic material... we are excited about the fresh dynamic this change will bring to Whitehawk.”

More than 100 dealers welcome both serious buyers and browsers of antique American Indian and ethnographic art. Items available include fine and historic art, baskets, weavings, beadwork, figurines, carvings, tribal art and shields, masks, and much more.

As always, only cash or checks are accepted for tickets. —Amanda Jackson

Whitehawk Antique Indian & Ethnographic Art Show, August 11–14, Friday night opening party 6–9 PM, $85 and includes two-day show admission; three-day show Saturday, August 12–Monday, August 14, 10 AM–5 PM, $15 per day or $25 for a run-of-show pass, Santa Fe Community Convention Center, 201 W Marcy, whitehawkshows.com

Objects of Art Santa Fe

SHOW Beginning Thursday, August 10, through Sunday, August 13, El Museo Cultural de Santa Fe in the Railyard hosts the Objects of Art show, now in its eighth year.

The show offers wide-ranging, high-quality art, including fine art and sculpture, folk and tribal art, rare books, American Indian, Asian, and African art, mid-20th-century furniture, contemporary textiles, jewelry, and other finds. It's an eclectic mix of old and new, and Kim Martindale, the show's coproducer, notes, "People are no longer keeping strict boundaries in art; they are uniting and putting diverse pieces together. They want to have art and design they can live with, they can wear, and they can love."

The Objects of Art show is followed by the fourth annual Antique American Indian Art Show Santa Fe, August 15–18.—AJ

Objects of Art Santa Fe, opening night gala August 10, 6–9 PM, $50; weekend show August 11–13, 11 AM–5 PM, $15 per day, El Museo Cultural de Santa Fe, 555 Camino de la Familia, objectsofartsantafe.com

At the Artist's Table

EVENT Two of Santa Fe's most prized elements—food and art—combine to raise money for the Partners in Education Foundation (supporting local teachers and students) and the City of Santa Fe Arts Commission's Youth Arts programs in the annual At the Artist's Table gathering. This year's theme is "A Taste of Chaco." Dinner will be prepared by Chef Kai Autenrieth of the Four Seasons Resort Rancho Encantado Santa Fe, and the featured artist is award-winning potter Lorraine Gala Lewis (Laguna/Taos/Hopi). Each guest will be given a signed, limited edition Lewis print inspired by Chaco Canyon artifacts. Chef Autenrieth's menu reflects Lewis's heritage, and the dishes are paired with wines from Arroyo Vino. This fundraiser takes place at the Santa Fe School of Cooking.—AM

Left: Lorraine Lewis is this year's featured artist for At the Artist's Table. The potter has Laguna, Taos, and Hopi roots.

At the Artist's Table, August 15, 6–9 PM, $250 per person, Santa Fe School of Cooking, 125 N Guadalupe, attheartiststable.org

Jambo Café is back

EVENT Jambo Café reopens its venue this evening (Thursday) after a remodel following an incident earlier this year when a car plowed through the eatery's front window. "Chef and Owner Ahmed M. Obo did all of the redesign and new look and feel himself," says Jambo's director of marketing and development Lyric Kali. "Back-of-the-house staff has stayed consistent to provide the Jambo taste Santa Fe knows and loves. Front-of-the-house staff will find some familiar and some new smiling faces." It's not only the reopening that's being celebrated; this is also the restaurant's eighth anniversary. Music, drums, and a special menu from Chef Obo will complete the festivities.—AM

Jambo Café's eighth anniversary and grand reopening, August 10, 5–9 PM, menu prices vary, 2010 Cerrillos, jambocafe.net

Above: The dining room is always packed with clientele hungry for the unique African and Caribbean flavors at Jambo Café.

Left: Chef Ahmed Obo is all smiles as he prepares to celebrate Jambo's eighth anniversary.

SEBOS SALVADOR

SEBOS SALVADOR

SEBOS SALVADOR

SEBOS SALVADOR